Some Martins Still Here, of Course; Purpose of Record

Editor The Star: I read your column in The Star, and saw where your purple martins are gone. Well, it isn't the case with mine. My box had martins in it Wednesday, July 21. They never leave that early. In fact, last year Oct. 1, I still saw them flying over our house. Regards,
PEARL HONEYCUTT
July 22, 1971
McCaskill, Ark.

But of course. The purple martin has no fixed schedule for either arrival or departure, which is the main reason I publish the record of my two boxes year after year. Mine used to arrive in March, and still leave around July 4. But in the last two years mine have arrived in February, still leaving around July 4.

Other martin buffs will have different observations, and I'll be glad to mention some of them if reported to me.

The first departure from your boxes is not usually final. The older birds customarily take off on a navigation-training flight from here to Illinois and return before beginning the four-months journey down the coast of Mexico to South America. Martins spend four months here, four in South America, and four "on the road."

To Knock Out Guaranteed Welfare Wage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long opened hearings on President Nixon's welfare reform program today, declaring the Senate Finance Committee intends to discard key guaranteed-wage provisions.

The Louisiana Democrat, chairman of the committee that will draft a Senate welfare measure, said his panel will support "a welfare program rather than a welfare-expansion program."

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson and Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson were leadoff witnesses in the hearings that will continue intermittently for weeks.

The House already has passed a bill tying welfare overhaul to a Social Security benefit increase for 27.4 million Americans.

The House bill carries the minimum income provision the administration proposed, insuring $2,400 a year to a family of four, and allows the family head to earn $720 without a loss in benefits.

It also would expand welfare eligibility to cover the working poor.

The Senate committee stalled, then killed, the welfare bill in the last Congress. This time, Long said, the committee will send the Senate a bill.

But even before Richardson and Hodgson could begin arguing the administration's case, Long declared flatly the terms approved by the House will not survive.

"The majority of the committee is ready to vote for a welfare program rather than a welfare-expansion program, a program that provides a guaranteed work opportunity rather than the guaranteed income that the administration bill would provide for doing nothing at all," Long said. "The committee is willing to support legislation to help the working poor—provided that they are working, as well as poor."

"We are not willing to provide a guaranteed annual income to an able-bodied individual who is unwilling to do anything useful for that income," the chairman said.

Long called the administration program "extensive, expensive and expansive," saying it would double, to 26 million, the number of Americans eligible for federally-aided welfare benefits.

Inhumanity at La. Prison Documented

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — State Rep. Dorothy Taylor, who played a major role in securing the release of two guards held hostage in Orleans Parish Prison, says she saw prisoners chained to staircases and some others in obvious need of medical attention.

"I really wasn't aware that in 1971 these inhumane conditions existed right here in Orleans Parish," Mrs. Taylor said after her visit Monday to the 42-year-old prison led to the release of the guards. They had been held hostage by prisoners seeking better conditions.

Mrs. Taylor, the only black in the Louisiana Legislature, said she promised the prisoners she would be "back before the weekend" to make a closer inspection of the prison.

The guards were held for almost eight hours in a cell tier housing 34 prisoners, including nine Black Panthers on trial on charges of attempted murder.

The guards, both black, were released unharmed when Mrs. Taylor agreed to communicate to newsmen and the public a list of grievances and Sheriff Louis Heyd Jr. agreed to let Mrs. Taylor form a citizens' committee to inspect the prison.

Heyd said the prisoners' complaints about medical care and living conditions were valid, but repeated his frequently stated contention that he has insufficient money to make needed improvements.

The uprising interrupted the trial of nine men and three women Black Panthers charged with attempted murder after a shootout with police last fall.

The trial judge, Israel Augustine, played a part in securing the release of the hostages. He and the defendants' lawyers accompanied Mrs. Taylor on her trips into the prison.

"There's no question that the penal system in Louisiana is archaic and medieval," the judge told newsmen, adding that he was not condoning the method used by prisoners to make their grievances known.

Thieu Bolstering Lagging Campaign by Filing Charges

By J. T. WOLKERSTORFER, Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Recent charges against Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu of drug trafficking and corruption were part of a devious political plot to bolster sagging support for President Nguyen Van Thieu, highly placed American sources report.

The idea was to clear the way for a three-way shift in military commanders that would improve Thieu's campaign prospects in the Mekong Delta. But somebody torpedoed the plot by leaking the charges prematurely.

Although he has a firm grip on all the levers of power, Thieu reportedly has begun to recognize the possibility that he could lose the presidential election Oct. 3. He apparently has been surprised at the amount of backing Gen. Duong Van Minh is getting among Buddhists in the northern part of the country and by the extent to which the military is lining up behind Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

As a result Thieu is said to believe that he must win the election by getting an overwhelming majority of votes in the southern provinces, especially in the rural areas of the populous Mekong Delta.

The commander of Military Region 4, which encompasses the delta, is Maj. Gen. Ngo

Ted Kennedy Rules Out Candidacy for President in 1972

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says the fear of an assassination attempt was "the most crushing" consideration in his decision not to seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

In an interview in the current Look magazine, Kennedy also said "I feel it in my gut that it's the wrong time, that it's too early" to run for president.

At another point, the 39-year-old senator from Massachusetts said, "Maybe I would like to do it later on, in a different climate, more on my own." He acknowledged awareness of "pressures felt within myself as well as from others" to carry on in the "tradition" of his late brothers—President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

But for the 1972 contest, he said, "Even if I were willing to reach out for this opportunity, personal pressures are overriding—subjecting my family to fears over my safety ... the tensions on my mother ..."

"I try not to think about the presidency," he told interviewer Warren Rogers. "But people like you keep bringing it up. I don't discuss it with my family. We just don't talk about it."

"I'm not going into any of the primaries," he said. "I've taken all the steps you're supposed to take to keep my name out of the primaries. Some states, like Oregon, can go ahead and put

First Juror Chosen in Medina Trial

ST. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Jury selection continues today in the court-martial of Capt. Ernest L. Medina, charged with assault and murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai three years ago.

Col. William Proctor, 47, a heavily decorated veteran of three wars and the first to be called from an initial panel of 10 prospective jurors, was tentatively seated Monday as jury foreman.

A minimum of five jurors is required in a court-martial. Medina, 34, of Montrose, Colo., appeared relaxed in shortsleeved khaki uniform, occasionally scribbling notes on a yellow legal pad and passing them to his lawyers.

Quang Truong. He is considered probably the most able and honest field commander in South Vietnam. But Truong has proved a political and has not sent his division and battalion commanders, or the province chiefs and district chiefs in his region out to stump for Thieu.

The president reportedly wants to replace Truong with a man ardently devoted to Thieu's political cause, possibly Maj. Gen. Nguyen Vinh Nghi, now commander of the 21st Division. But to demote Truong to a less important command or to give him a desk job in Saigon would cause widespread dissent—possibly even rebellion—among the military.

The sources say Thieu planned to make Truong commander of Military Region 2 in the central highlands, which he considers politically unimportant but militarily critical and demanding a top-flight general. The obstacle was Gen. Dzu, the present commander.

The sources say Thieu planned to remove Dzu on charges of drug trafficking, but someone—apparently a Vietnamese trying to sabotage Thieu's plan—leaked the information to Rep. Robert H. Steele during the Connecticut Republican's visit to Saigon to investigate the drug situation among U.S. forces.

Bids on Hy. 229 in Nevada Co.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bituminous, Inc., of Pine Bluff submitted an apparent low bid of $1,888,098 for surfacing of 9.8 miles of Arkansas 18 eastward from the U.S. 63 junction in Jonesboro.

This was the largest of 14 bids opened by the Arkansas Highway Commission today. The bids totaled $6,378,232.

The other bids and jobs, by county:

Hope Predicts Troop Withdrawal

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope, whose annual Christmas shows for servicemen in Vietnam have become a tradition, predicted Monday night that virtually all U.S. troops will be out of Vietnam by next July.

Hope made the statement at the 53rd annual convention of the National Exchange Club, which presented him its 1971 Outstanding American Award.

Area Draft-Age Men Uncertain

Selective Service System Executive Secretary, Wanda Cox, who manages Hope and Nashville's local boards, says the current Congressional impasse over extending the induction authority has created great uncertainty among area draft-age men.

Mrs. Cox continued, "Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr has recently stressed the importance of explaining to our draft-age men the high probability that draft calls will resume in the near future and that the current impasse in the Congress is not likely to affect any registrant's chance of being drafted."

"Our local board has been specifically instructed to continue to register and classify men, and to order for preinduction physical examinations those young men who may be needed to fill draft calls in the coming months," Mrs. Cox said.

Men with lottery numbers through 125 were eligible for induction in June in order to fill draft calls. Since then, the Defense Department has asked Selective Service to draft 16,000 men in July-August. This request is being held by Selective Service headquarters pending final Congressional action on the draft bill, which is expected within several weeks.

"Those young men with relatively low lottery numbers who are eligible for induction this year, particularly those with numbers below 175—the current processing ceiling—have a very good chance of being processed for induction after draft calls are restored," Mrs. Cox said.

"Many young men," said Mrs. Cox, "seem to think that the Selective Service Act has permanently expired and that they probably will never be drafted. Some of them also think that the entire system has stopped. They are wrong since it is only the induction authority that has expired. They, therefore, may be unintentionally breaking the law by failing to register at age 18, by not keeping their local boards informed of their current address, or by failing to report, if ordered, for their preinduction physical examinations."

Mrs. Cox also stressed that local boards are continuing to consider C O, hardship, and student deferments and to take other classification actions. "Young men who had planned to submit requests for deferments or exemptions are encouraged to do so," Mrs. Cox said. "The expiration of the induction authority does not affect our responsibility to classify young men," Mrs. Cox added.

Mrs. Cox may be contacted at the Federal Building, Hope, Arkansas, and at the Court House in Nashville, Arkansas.

Cool Front Moving Through

Anyone wishing to help with financing the Little League's trip to the state tournament in Pine Bluff Aug 5-6 should contact Perry Henley at 777-4447.

The front has drifted as far southward as was expected, and this will allow thundershowers to develop over south Arkansas through tonight and will likely spread over the state Wednesday.

A high pressure cell centered over western Missouri is keeping temperatures a little cooler than normal. Highs through Wednesday are forecast in the 80s with early morning lows in the low 60s to low 70s.

The cool front triggered numerous showers and thundershowers particularly over the southern portion of Arkansas Monday afternoon.

Overnight lows around the state include Fayetteville 58, Harrison 60, Jonesboro 68, Pine Bluff 71, Texarkana 70, El Dorado 70, Memphis 68, Little Rock 70 and Fort Smith 67.

Apollo 15 Schedules Test Burn Before Moon Landing Try

Why Backside of Moon Needs Exploring

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Why is the mysterious backside of the moon, which is never turned to earth, vastly different in features than the familiar, intensely studied frontside?

Why does the moon rotate on its axis once every 28 days—the same time it takes the moon to circle the earth?

Scientists hope Apollo 15 will provide new information that could answer these fundamental questions about the moon and its backside, which U.S. astronauts won't visit in the foreseeable future.

The new information is expected to come from a battery of cameras and instruments on the Apollo 15 command ship Endeavour never carried before on lunar missions. Astronaut Alfred M. Worden will operate them from lunar orbit while crewmates David R. Scott and James B. Irwin explore the lunar surface.

The most important question scientists hope the cameras and instruments will answer is how the moon is shaped.

The popular theory is that the crust on the moon's backside is 2.5 miles thicker than the front-side crust. The theory is used to explain why the moon's far side is devoid of the vast mares or seas that characterize the frontside and why one side of the moon always faces earth.

After the moon was formed by the gathering together of cosmic dust and gas, the theory goes, the mass cooled, forming a crust with a molten core.

Meteorites then bombarded the crust, carving out great basins. On the frontside where the crust was thinner, holes were punched through the crust and hot lava welled up, filling the basins and forming the mares.

But on the backside, the crust was too thick and the basins never filled with lava.

"The question of the differences in thickness of crust is a very fundamental question that has to be answered," said Dr. Harold Masursky of the U.S. Geological Survey. "If the difference exists, it says something happened in the very early formative stages of the moon to give a different crustal thickness."

"The same thing may have happened on earth but because of the great floating continents, all that evidence has been wiped out. It may be the earth also has a different thickness of crust."

Apollo Timetable

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 timetable—all times Eastern Daylight: Tuesday

4:29 p.m.—Firing of main engine for midcourse correction and also to check system components for any possible defect relating to an unexplained flicker in the Endeavour's instrument panel.

7:19 p.m.—Start of a 45-minute live telecast from space.

7:39 p.m.—Astronaut James B. Irwin enters the lunar lander named the Falcon. He will be followed by astronaut David R. Scott, the mission commander.

9:34 p.m.—Scott and Irwin return to the command ship Endeavour after inspecting the Falcon for any damage from Monday's liftoff at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Astronauts' Wives Do No Worrying

By MIKE COCHRAN, Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The wives of Apollo 15's moonbound astronauts admit they cry a lot, like during Monday's launch, but neither wastes much time worrying.

"I never worry about anything I have no control over," said Mary Irwin, wife of Apollo moonship pilot James B. Irwin. "God takes care of everything that I can't take care of. And that's one of his jobs."

"I'm just not a worrier," said Lurton Scott, the dark-haired spouse of the mission commander, David R. Scott. "I figure it doesn't do any good."

"If things go wrong, you can worry about it then. Worrying ahead of time just doesn't do any good."

The wives returned home to Houston on separate flights Monday afternoon while their husbands and command module pilot Alfred M. Worden, who is divorced, met and mastered a small problem with a faulty switch.

"I always cry," Mrs. Irwin said later.

"So do I—from happiness," added Mrs. Scott.

Mrs. Irwin could not say how her four children responded. "I forgot to look at their reaction when the rocket lifted off because I was so busy with my own emotions," she explained.

The wives returned home to Houston on separate flights Monday afternoon while their husbands and command module pilot Alfred M. Worden, who is divorced, met and mastered a small problem with a faulty switch.

Drowns in Drainage Ditch

MARKED TREE, Ark. (AP) — James Luster, 23, of Marked Tree drowned Monday when he apparently fell into a hole in a drainage ditch about two miles east of Marked Tree.

Witnesses said Luster, who could not swim, was wading in water waist deep when he went under.

"People and Places" Considers China

State Dept. Silent on China Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is sounding like a recorded announcement in refusing to discuss the new U.S. policy on China and the United Nations.

Almost two weeks after President Nixon's stunning announcement of his upcoming trip to Peking the United States continues to ponder the timing for declaring its position on U.N. status for the two Chinas.

As he has since the President told the nation of a new approach to the mainland Chinese, State Department press officer Charles W. Bray continues to answer all questions on the substance of U.N.-China policies with a "no comment."

Asked Monday when the announcement would be made, Bray answered in the same words he has used for more than a week in meeting similar queries—"The announcement is some days away."

The reasons for the "no comment" is easily found—Secretary of State William P. Rogers has ordered a news embargo on all department discussions regarding U.S.-China relations.

Motives behind the refusal to say when the U.N.-China announcement will be made are not so readily uncovered.

While he hasn't given details Nixon has made it clear for some time he will not oppose U.N. membership for Peking, leaving to be decided the role for Taiwan and the public posture the United States should take.

But, according to several administration sources foreign diplomats, Peking's entry is a near certainty and Nixon really doesn't have much margin for action.

The indicate it comes down to trying for some sort of accommodation on a two-China policy—which has been rejected in advance by both Chinas—or voting to keep Peking out but without conducting the type of full-fledged lobbying campaign that marked previous U.N.-China debate.

Soon after presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger returned from his secret trip to Peking July 9-11, a high White House official said the State Department would make public the U.S. stand on U.N. membership "in the very near future."

Another administration official suggested early last week the statement was imminent.

But in his last session with newsmen Bray said the United States is "in the process of consulting with governments having an interest in the issue of Chinese representation in the U.N."

Nelson May Try for Congress

ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — Bill Nelson of Rogers, an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor last year, says he is "looking into the possibility" of running for the congressional seat currently held by Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark.

"It looks like the position might be up for grabs in the Democratic primary," Nelson said. "And there's a good chance that a Democrat could defeat Congressman Hammerschmidt in the general election."

Nelson said he didn't have anything personal against Hammerschmidt but that he believed

Vaccination of Horses Near End

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Vaccination of horses against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis—VEE—is 85 per cent complete in Texas and virtually finished in Oklahoma, the federal emergency headquarters here said Monday.

Vaccination also continues today in Louisiana, New Mexico and Arkansas, and should start within a week in California, Arizona, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

Meanwhile, the Texas Animal Health Commission said the brain disease, which swept into Texas June 29 from Mexico, had killed 1,315 horses and sickened another 1,874.

The Texas Health Department said one new case in humans was confirmed over the weekend, bringing the total human cases in Texas to 23. The department said there are 120 other suspected cases in human beings.

One case of VEE had been reported outside of Texas, in an unidentified 33-year-old employee of the U.S. Public Health Service laboratory in Fort Collins, Colo. Health Department officials said this man apparently caught the disease while working in Texas earlier this month in connection with the Vee outbreak.

So far, confirmed cases in horses have been confined to 11 Texas counties, a federal emergency center spokesman said.

Airplanes continued to spray coastal areas Monday to kill the mosquitoes which carry the disease. They will spray more than eight million acres before the project is completed in early August, a federal official said.

The federal emergency center spokesman estimated Monday that 949,950 horses have been vaccinated in Texas since the drive started, along with 138,392 in Oklahoma, 101,898 in Louisiana, 15,904 in Arkansas and 14,743 in New Mexico.

Health officials in Arkansas said the more than 15,000 horses represented a third of the horse population in that state. Dr. Drichard Thomas, state veterinarian, said it will take about three weeks to complete the program.

The new vaccination program in six more states will give blanket vaccination coverage of 11 states with a horse population estimated at 2.23 million, federal officials said.

Acquitted in Rape Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Circuit Court jury deliberated 20 minutes Monday before acquitting Tommy Smith, 17, of Wrightsville, who was charged with first-degree rape in an alleged assault on a 17-year-old Little Rock woman last Aug. 7.

Smith, one of five youths charged in connection with the alleged rape, testified Monday that he had not assaulted the girl. He also told the jury that Edward Jones, 17, of Wrightsville, a co-defendant who testified against Smith Friday, was the only one of the five who engaged in sexual relations with her.

The 3rd District could be "much better off with a Democrat in Washington."

Cong Thinks Vote in South 'for Real'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Viet Cong these days is talking about the South Vietnamese presidential election in October as if it might be important.

All along the National Liberation Front had been charging that the election would be rigged in advance. Now, with the voting only about two months off, the front seems to have joined enthusiastically in the campaigning. Its propaganda gives the clear impression that it wants supporters to join movements to thwart rigging, and then to get out and vote. It doesn't say for whom, though it makes abundantly clear that President Nguyen Van Thieu must go.

What might this mean?

For one thing, it could mean that the front and its North Vietnamese allies are preparing for the eventuality of a sharply changed climate in the Orient. The fact that Washington and Peking could agree on a visit of President Nixon to Communist China would seem to suggest that the American role in the Indochina fighting will soon become minimal, at the least.

If the war did seem clearly to be winding down, the NLF would likely want to have a voice in whatever regime might emerge in the South provided Thieu could be turned out.

The front could see the removal of Thieu from the scene in Saigon as opening a door to contact with a successor regime. The NLF is rigidly committed to the idea that Thieu must be ousted before there can be any talk of peace, and it would have the same attitude toward Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky should he win. But it has no such public stand with regard to Gen. Duong Van Minh or Minh's running mate.

All along the front has insisted that the only solution in Vietnam is for the Vietnamese to solve their own problems without outside interference. Possibly the front believes Big Minh might be amenable to a coalition.

While it would never talk with Thieu or Ky, the front could talk with Big Minh. It could hope, too, to emerge with something of value: a voice in a coalition sufficiently authoritative to satisfy Viet Cong ambitions for the immediate future and end the decade of bloodshed.

Ark. Senators With Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. J. W. Fulbright and John L. McClellan, both D-Ark., voted with the majority Monday as the Senate refused to invoke cloture and shut off debate on a bill to provide federal loan guarantees for Lockheed Aircraft and other financially troubled corporations.

The vote, 42-47, was 18 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to invoke cloture.

Both Fulbright and McClellan voted with the majority when the Senate defeated a motion to table an amendment that would have knocked Lockheed out of a bill to rescue major failing businesses.

Bumpers to Be Spokesman for His Staff

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An aide to Gov. Dale Bumpers says members of the executive staff understand that they should not discuss some subjects with newsmen although there has been no formal order to practice reticence.

Archie Schaffer III, appointments aide to Bumpers, said the "understanding" apparently developed in staff meetings where Bumpers expressed a desire to be the only general spokesman for the administration. Schaffer said Bumpers, in line with his desire, has "discouraged" any inclination by the staff of the governor's office to talk to reporters.

In addition to the general policy, the governor has given explicit instructions on some occasions for his staff not to discuss certain items with the news media.

Some persons believe the governor's policy has embarrassed him at times at his staff at other times. It was Bumpers who promised to stand by his original tax package this year "until the last dog dies," but 18 hours later announced a substitute tax proposal.

It was also Bumpers who criticized the legislation for delaying prison appropriation bills to express disapproval of Robert Sarver, then state corrections commissioner. Bumpers said that the legislature's tactic was "not the way personnel matters will be handled within this administration." He asked for Sarver's resignation within the week.

An example of the pressure Bumpers' policy puts on members of his staff occurred last week when the governor made an unannounced visit to the prisons. A newsman learned of the trip and called Schaffer to find out what was going on.

"I'm not in a position to confirm or deny that," Schaffer is reported to have said.

The newsman responded with amusement that he didn't seek confirmation or denial, that he KNEW the trip had been made and was interested only in obtaining a few details.

Another member of Bumpers' staff was on that trip and was asked by a newsman later in the day where he had been. He said he had been nowhere out of the ordinary. The code of silence had been imposed by Bumpers regarding this trip.

Schaffer said the governor's intent was not designed to bar the free flow of information, nor to permit Bumpers to exercise a degree of news management by personally selecting what topics would be discussed and what would be said about them. He said nothing was being covered up and that Bumpers did not institute the "understanding" as a means of preserving his political image by concealing unfavorable developments.

"It's just that there are some things better left unsaid," Schaffer said. "I mean that for the good of the state, not necessarily for the governor's political interests."

Former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, at his first news conference since leaving office, said recently that a credibility gap had developed between Bumpers and the public. He did not list specifics to support his accusation.

Schaffer said, however, that no credibility gap existed. He added that there is no grounds for one. The grounds for such a gap, Schaffer said, would be "when a governor makes a flat statement saying he will do this or that, then turns around and does something contrary to that."

The switch on the tax package was not such a case, he said. Bumpers arrived in town late in the day on which he made the remark. His staff evidently had concluded that his first tax package would not obtain complete approval by the legislature. They thought the time had come for an alternate proposal.

When Bumpers met newsmen and made the "until the last dog dies" remark, he apparently was unaware of the conclusion reached by his staff. After making the remark, however, he met with them, accepted their decision, and, with rather awkward timing, announced the new package. That, at least, is how the administration tells it.

Grover Cleveland was the only U.S. president to serve two nonconsecutive terms.

English Session on Weed Control Draws 2 G. & F. Staffers

By CHARLES BURTON
Arkansas Game and Fish Commission

LITTLE ROCK—Two of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission's fishery biologists, Bill Bailey of Lonoke and Randy Boyd of Jonesboro, have just returned from Oxford University at Oxford, England, near London, where they attended an international symposium on aquatic weed control sponsored by the European Weed Research Council.

The conference consisted of eight technical sessions dealing with such topics as biological growth of aquatic weeds, biological control of aquatic weeds, effects of weed control on fish and other water organisms, chemical weed control and clearance to use certain chemicals, and demonstration of various methods of mechanical weed control.

Bailey and Boyd were invited to attend this symposium as a result of their work in Arkansas with the Chinese grass carp or white amur. The Chinese grass carp is a fish that was originally brought into Arkansas by the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife (BSFW) to the Fish Farming Experimental Station in Stuttgart in an attempt to raise them and check their effectiveness as a means of biological weed control. According to Fisheries Chief Bill Mathis the Chinese grass carp seems to be less selective in the type of vegetation it will eat than is the Israeli carp, which has already been used extensively by the Game and Fish for weed control.

The first of the Chinese grass carp were imported as very small fingerlings from Malaysia in 1963 and the first success with spawning these fish was in 1966. In 1968 the BSFW made the decision to abandon the grass carp project and turned their brood stock and some 1500 fingerlings over to the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission. The commission placed these fish on the Joe Hogan State Fish Hatchery at Lonoke and started seeking methods of insuring a greater spawn of these fish. The

Farm Bureau Conference in August

U. S. Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, State Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon, State Sen. Robert Harvey and William J. Kuhfuss of Illinois, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will headline the Arkansas Farm Bureau Officers' and Leaders' Conference, Aug. 2-4 at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

The annual conference, expected to attract some 400 of the state's leading farmers, is designed to bring Farm Bureau members up to date on agricultural legislation and Farm Bureau services.

The meeting will begin Monday night, Aug. 2, with an address by Dr. David Mullins, president of the University of Arkansas, on the school's centennial year.

Rep. Hammerschmidt will speak at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 3, in a session which will include a report by a Farm Bureau committee studying the organization's present services and future needs.

Rep. Brandon, Sen. Harvey and Kuhfuss will be featured on the program for the last session, 9 a.m. to noon Wednesday, Aug. 4.

That session will open with an illustrated review of Farm Bureau's legislative accomplishments over the years. Brandon and Harvey will discuss "Legislative Opportunities in an Urban Society."

Kuhfuss, a livestock and grain farmer, will be the closing speaker. He has been president of the national farm organization, with almost two million members, since last December.

Sinatra Invited by Agnew

LISBON (AP) — Frank Sinatra was among those on the invitation list for a dinner to be given today by Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew.

The retired entertainer arrived here Monday and was met by an Agnew aide at Lisbon airport. Sinatra has been vacationing in Europe since retiring from show business a few weeks ago.

Enemy Foils Vietnamese, Ruins Copters

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong sappers slipped into a major allied base 30 miles north of Saigon early today, blew up four American helicopters valued at more than $1.5 million dollars and damaged a fifth chopper.

"They came right through the wire," said one sergeant at the Lai Khe base camp. "They made a clean escape as far as we know."

The sergeant said two Americans were slightly wounded. There were no South Vietnamese casualties, the government said.

Field reports said two AH1 Cobra gunships and two OH6 light observation helicopters were destroyed and a Cobra gunship was damaged.

No one on the big base even saw the sappers, according to one enlisted man. They hurled satchel charges into the helicopters. The Lai Khe camp was turned over to the South Vietnamese 5th Infantry Division last year when the U.S. 1st Infantry Division was withdrawn from combat. But elements of the U.S. 1st Aviation Brigade are stationed there, and military spokesmen in Saigon said the perimeter was guarded by both South Vietnamese and American forces when the sappers moved onto the base undetected about 3:30 a.m.

It was the third attack in less than two weeks on a U.S. helicopter compound.

Viet Cong saboteurs also were active on the central coast.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. ALTON TROWBRIDGE

Miss Debra Sue Shoemaker became the bride of Alton Dwayne Trowbridge in a double-ring ceremony Saturday, July 24 at 4 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Hope. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Shoemaker, 718 South Washington Street, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Trowbridge, San Angelo, Tex.

The Reverend Norris Steele heard the marriage vows before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladiolus. Mrs. Joe Eason, organist, played pre-nuptial selections and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Miss Tommi Lou Watson as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "More".

The bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of flocked silk organza over peau d'ange satin, fashioned in the empire line with a scoop neckline and a chapel train. Flocked flowers accented the cuffs of the bishop sleeves and encircled the front of the skirt. Velvet Dior bows accented the empire line in both the front and back. The veil of illusion was held by a white velvet bow. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of fleur d'amour and white feathered carnations with touches of blue ribbon.

Miss Emily Shoemaker was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Teresa Shoemaker, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Rodney Mathers of Abilene, Tex. The attendants wore floor-length satin dresses in shades of turquoise. The dresses, made in the empire style featured a scoop neckline and full sleeves which gathered into ruffles at the wrists. Lace accented the empire waist and the wrists of the sleeves. To complement their dresses, they wore white soft straw hats with Arkadelphia were ushers.

For her daughters wedding Mrs. Brooks wore aqua blue lace with matching accessories. Mrs. Wheelington wore beige lace with blending accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

Following the wedding, a reception was given in the home of the bride's grandmother and aunt, Mrs. E.M. Stuart and Martha Stuart. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. James Cowling of Bearden, Mrs. Mike McBryde of Fayetteville and Mrs. Leslie Salisbury of Arkadelphia. Mrs. Billy Avera of Malvern presided at the Bride's Book.

After a short wedding trip the couple returned to their home at 1305 South Main in Hope.

satin ribbon to match their dresses. They carried colonial bouquets of feathered white, pink, and yellow carnations.

A. C. Trowbridge served his son as best man.

Groomsmen were Harlon Trowbridge, brother of the groom, San Angelo; Steve Shoemaker, brother of the bride. Ushers were George Groff, San Angelo; A. T. Shoemaker, Jr., Richardson, Tex.

At the wedding the bride's mother, Mrs. W. D. Shoemaker, had a yellow feathered carnation corsage, and the groom's mother, Mrs. A. C. Trowbridge, wore a pink feathered carnation corsage.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Douglas Building. Those in the house party included Mrs. Ray Gardner, Monroe, La.; Mrs. Robert Thomson, and Mrs. John Hill, Sherman, Tex.; and Mrs. George Groff, San Angelo, Tex.

When the wedding couple left for a trip to Dallas, the bride donned a light pink dacron double knit pantsuit with white accessories. It featured a detailed top-stitched tunic with a high round neckline and short, set-in sleeves. She also wore a white Cymbidium orchid with a pink throat.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Trowbridge will be at home at Rosemont Apts., 1902 Jade Street, No. 2, San Angelo, Tex.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Robert Lee High School, Robert Lee, Tex., where she was a member of the Future Homemakers of America, the Future Teachers of America, Beta Club, and was salutarian of the class. She is a sophomore at Angelo State University, San Angelo.

The bridegroom is a 1968 graduate of Lakeview High School, San Angelo, Tex., attended Howard Payne College in Brownwood, Tex., and is a junior at Angelo State University, San Angelo. He is also employed at College Hills "M" System in San Angelo.

Besides the out-of-town participants in the wedding and reception, others attending included Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Shoemaker, Sr., Robert F. Thomson, Rod and Jan Thomson, John Hill, Jimmy, Mark, and Kermit Hill, all of Sherman, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dosier, Sr., and Mrs. Frank Hanna, all of Delhi, La.; Mrs. A. T. Shoemaker, Jr., Randy and Sharon Shoemaker, Richardson, Tex.; Ray Gardner and Cheryl, Monroe, La.; Clifford Rusler, San Angelo; Rodney Mathers, Abilene, Tex., and Frank A. Miles, Hurst, Tex.

Coming, Going

Mr. and Mrs. John Tabor and Mike, North Little Rock, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holeman, Shreveport, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Horace Anthony.

Mrs. C.C. McNeill, Mrs. C.D. Lester, Mrs. T.S. McDavitt and Mrs. R.P. Barlow went to Heber Springs for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Pilkinton spent the weekend in Fayetteville with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pilkinton who are students at the U of A. Jim Pilkinton is in Law School, and Mrs. Pilkinton is in the graduate school.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lively have returned home from a honeymoon in North Carolina and Tennessee and back to the Ft. Smith area.

There will be a revival at the Missionary Baptist Church in McNab beginning Sunday, August 8 and ending Saturday, August 14 at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Harold Marcum will be the evangelist and the public is invited.

Friday Bridge Club

Mrs. Tom Kinser was hostess for a meeting of her Friday Bridge Club on July 23 and used roses to decorate her home. High at the two tables of players were Mrs. Louise Kalin and Mrs. M.M. McCloughan.

During the refreshment hour, the hostess served strawberry cake and pink sherbet to the members and one guest, Mrs. Rob Jones.

Dessert-Bridge

Mrs. Joe Phillip Watkins and Mrs. Newt Pentecost were hostesses for a Dessert-Bridge at the Hope Country Club on Thursday, July 22. A variety of cakes were served with coffee before bridge was played at 7 tables. There was one out-of-town guest, Miss Elsie Weisenberger of Houston.

Winners were: high, Mrs. Henry Seamans; second high, Mrs. H.C. Whitworth; consolation, Mrs. Thompson Evans, Jr.; game, Mrs. Herbert Burns.

Man Has a Moth in Ear

SAN FORD, Maine (AP) — An unidentified man came into the emergency ward of Henrietta Goodall Hospital during the weekend, complaining of a moth in his ear.

A skeptical nurse peered into the man's ear with an otoscope and there was the little creature buzzing around inside.

A physician repeated the examination and, attracted by the otoscope's light, the moth fluttered out of the man's ear.

Digger Finds No Gold

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Hanekamp spent the weekend digging for gold in a city park and found none. City officials weren't surprised.

Hanekamp, a 30-year-old drapery installer, got permission to dig at Elysian Park when a metal detector gave a weak but encouraging reading. He agreed to share any gold with the city.

After two days Hanekamp and a few volunteer helpers had blistered hands and two broken picks. A park official said an underground water pipe probably caused the detector reading.

After the Civil War, Atlanta was rebuilt and became the capital of Georgia.

Battle for Free Safety

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Cliff Harris says he's perfectly capable of being the Dallas Cowboys starting free safety, but he can't convince good friend Charlie Waters to step aside.

The first round of the Harris-Waters battle has been scored a draw by the only judge who counts, coach Tom Landry. "That's an interesting battle. They're both gung-ho guys who love to play the game. Right now, no one has the edge," Landry says.

But Waters is working with the first unit in the early going, protecting the starting job he inherited from Harris at mid-season last year when the latter was called up to active military duty.

"I know I can play there right now," Harris says. "I don't think I have to prove it to the coaches, either. Last year, when I was a rookie, there was a question in my mind. It would have been stupid to say I could play free safety for the Cowboys."

But play it he did, and sensationally. So did Waters. During the 13 regular season games they started, they totaled 11 turnovers—four fumble recoveries and seven interceptions.

Harris shot to prominence in last year's training camp with his savage tackling. A 6-1, 187-pounder, he rocked running backs 30 pounds heavier.

"It never hurts," Harris maintains. "Oh, sometimes you get up feeling numb. But tackling is something I really enjoy. It took a while to adjust, because I wasn't used to tackling guys in the pros who were that big and fast.

"In college, I loved it. The running backs may have been as big, but they weren't as fast. Receivers were smaller and with a good hit you could put them out of the game."

"When I first came here, I expected it to be the same. I expected my collision to drive everybody back. It was a different story."

Although they are fighting for the same job, Harris says it hasn't affected his personal relationship with Waters.

"We're still good friends. We have a lot in common. It's hard to break up a friendship over that. Now if he was a receiver and I was a defensive back and it came down to the last cut between him and me, maybe we'd have a different relationship off the field."

Harris expressed mild surprise that he wasn't returned to the starting unit when pre-season drills began.

"I didn't realize how it would be. Coach Landry explained that you have to give the starting job back to the man who last held it. Right now Charlie's working with the first unit."

"I still have a shot at the job. It's not like last year when the position was wide open. It's a disadvantage to me not to be working with the other three defensive backs."

"Getting your coordination down with the others is one of the key factors in secondary defense."

"You can't make a mistake back there. There are no little things at free safety. The pressure is on every play because a miss and it's a touchdown."

LeVias Traded by Oilers

By EARL GERHEIM Associated Press Sports Writer When Ed Hughes assumed the head coaching chores at Houston he promised to strengthen the Oilers' offensive and defensive front lines.

Keeping his vows, he placed fleet-footed wide receiver Jerry LeVias on the trading block and received two mammoth bruisers—6-8, 225-pound Ron Billingsley and 6-8 300-pound Gene Ferguson—from the San Diego Chargers Monday.

LeVias, a 5-foot-10 170-pounder whose ball-snaring prowess made him a big hit with Houston fans, led the Oilers in scoring receptions for both of his pro seasons.

Billingsley, who was San Diego's top draft pick in 1967 and had been a starting defensive right tackle, is expected to help bolster the Oiler defensive wall.

Ferguson, a three-year pro veteran, has seen action as both an offensive and defensive tackle for San Diego and probably will play on offense for Houston.

The Green Bay Packers acquired veteran signal-caller Gary Lane in an effort to bolster their quarterback strength. Battle-scarred Bart Starr, the 37-year-old who quarterbacked the Packers to four world championships, is slated to undergo surgery Wednesday in an effort to correct his ailing arm.

Other Packer quarterbacks include Frank Patrick, rookie Scott Hunter and 39-year-old Zeke Bratkowski, who is attempting to shake off the rust after spending two seasons as an assistant coach.

Elsewhere, Oakland Raiders tacklers tackle Bob Brown, considered by some people such a nasty guy they hung a "Mr. Bad Guy of the Southland" tag on him, was busy passing on some tricks of the trade to a rookie.

"I've never done that before," Brown said after he took 6-3 250-pound Horace Jones in tow and ushered him through drills.

The Buffalo Bills stressed their aerial game—both offense and defense. Coach Harvey Johnson, who took over as head field boss last week, alternated quarterbacks Dennis Shaw, Jim Harris and Gusti Underwood. Shaw was the National Football League's 1972 rookie-of-the-year.

In an effort to develop broader understanding about the over-all defensive picture, Cleveland Browns Coach Nick Skorich switched his backfield defensive corps around during practice.

Veteran safety Ernie Kellerman had a stint as a cornerback and termed exposure to another position as "great."

"It gives the safeties a chance to get the feel of man-for-man coverage," Skorich said.

Wants All Eligible for Rose Bowl

By JACK STEVENSON Associated Press Sports Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant of the University of Alabama football team says he wishes all teams could be eligible to play in the Rose Bowl game.

In a news conference in Los Angeles, Bryant revealed that in 1961, the Alabama team waited, waited and waited for a Rose Bowl bid before accepting one to the Sugar Bowl where the Crimson Tide beat Arkansas 10-3.

That was a year when the contract between the Pacific-8 and the Big Ten wasn't in effect, but the choice went to Minnesota of the Big Ten. Now the Pac-8 has an agreement that its champion meet a representative of the Big Ten.

"I'd like to see the Rose Bowl open," said Bryant who was a player for Alabama in 1935 when it beat Stanford 29-13 at Pasadena.

"I sure would like to see it open and I'd like to see it soon," he added. "I'm not going to tee off too many more times."

St. Louis 4-0 Over New York

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer Every time Bob Gibson throws a baseball, it hurts him. And when he's working against New York, it hurts the Mets even more.

Gibson limited the Mets to five hits Monday night and pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 victory over New York for his second straight shutout and the 47th of his career.

In Monday night's only other action, Chicago dropped Montreal 5-2, Minnesota nipped Boston 2-1 and Houston topped Philadelphia 7-4 in 15 innings.

Gibson's victory was the 25th of his career against the Mets. No pitcher has beaten New York more than that. And a few pitchers work with as much pain as the flame-throwing right-hander who is now just two wins away from 200 for his career.

"It's painful, but not painful enough to keep me from pitching," Gibson said of the damaged muscle in his right thigh which kept him on the disabled list for three weeks earlier this season.

Gibson's shutout moved his record for the season to a still unimpressive 6-9. His earned run average has been in unfamiliar territory—over 3.00—all season.

"Some years everything goes well with you," said Gibson. "You can make all kinds of mistakes and get away with them. And other years, nothing goes for you."

Gibson knew this wasn't one of his years when the Mets beat him the first two times they met this season. But Monday's shutout increased his career log to 25-9 against New York. He was unimpressed by the statistics.

"What's the difference who you beat," the pitcher shrugged, "as long as you beat them."

Joe Torre made Gibson's task easy, drilling three hits to run his current hot streak to 12 hits in his last 18 swings. Torre, the National League's leading batter, drove in two runs in the first inning and then Gibson tripled and scored on Lou Brock's bunt single in the second.

Matty Alou's ninth inning homer accounted for the Cardinals' other run.

Gibson's shutout kept the Cardinals tied with Chicago for second place in the National League East. The Cubs used Milt Pappas' five-hit pitching to beat Montreal in a nationally televised game.

Jim Hickman led Chicago's attack with three hits, driving in two runs and scoring another. The Cubs were trailing 2-1 until the sixth when they bunched five hits for three runs against loser Steve Renko, 9-11.

Pappas, 11-9, surrendered single runs in the second and third innings but was in control after that. "I hope we get on national television a bit more often," the veteran right-hander said. "We've been on twice and I've won twice."

Jim Kaat outlasted Sonny Siebert in a pitcher's duel and Minnesota nipped Boston on Jim Holt's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning.

The Twins had tied the score against Siebert on George Mitterwald's seventh inning homer after the Boston ace had limited them to three hits over the first six innings.

Rich Reese opened the ninth with a triple when his low drive got past Reggie Smith in right field. After Siebert loaded the bases with a pair of intentional walks, he got Mitterwald on a short fly but then Holt delivered the winner.

Smith had three hits, drove in Boston's run and also turned in some outstanding defensive plays in right field until the ninth.

Cesar Cedeno, who had key doubles in two earlier Houston rallies, touched off the winning three-run spurt in the 15th inning with a single as the Astros whipped Philadelphia.

Cedeno raced to third on an error and then scored on Doug Rader's third hit, a double. After Denis Menke walked, Jesus Alou doubled two more runs home.

Willie Montanez had two homers for the Phillies, who led 2-1 until Cedeno's first double tied the score in the eighth. Hits by Joe Morgan Cedeno and Rader produced two runs in the

Beaver Lake Rated Hottest Fishing Spot in the Entire Nation

By MAX E. LOVE Travel Editor Department Parks and Tourism

Real "dyed-in-the-wool" fishermen are hard to fool. Give them a "blue sky" report on a so-called "red hot" fishing spot and generally they'll head in the opposite direction.

There is an exception to this rule, however, and the exception is Beaver Lake in the Ozarks of north central Arkansas. Just mention Beaver and fishermen will perk up their ears and listen to every word you say.

Chances are most fishermen already have read a recent report from the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission that summarized a 12-month study of fishing on Beaver which makes any "blue sky" report turn green with envy.

The study—which covered a period of June 1, 1970, through May, 1971—was a joint venture of the Game and Fish Commission, the Corps of Engineers and the U. S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife. This report showed that 19 per cent more people were fishing Beaver and were catching 29 per cent more fish than during the previous 12 months. The real eye-opener, though, was the fact that the average weight of fish caught was up 45 per cent. This means that the four-pounder you caught a few months ago has put on enough "blubber" to tip the scales at almost eight pounds. (Try this big fellow on your four-pound test line.)

This report is great news to all fishermen and should create a run on the lake that will make the California Gold Rush (of the 1850's), look like a Sunday School picnic. But the Beaver area is MORE than just a fisherman's paradise. It also is one of mid-America's

Griffith Triumphs Over Cohen

By TOM SALADINO Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "There was a lot of pressure on me to win this fight," said Emile Griffith.

But the former five-time world champion came through to chalk up his 10th consecutive triumph by completely outclassing Nessim "Max" Cohen of France Monday night at Madison Square Garden in a 10-round middleweight fight.

"There was lots of pressure," said the 33-year-old Griffith, who had already signed for a title fight against middleweight champion Carlos Monzon in Buenos Aires, Sept. 18—but he had to beat Cohen.

"I knew I had a chance to try again and I wanted the opportunity to win the title again," said Griffith.

"Cohen is a good strong fighter but I really couldn't fight my fight against him because I was afraid of getting butted."

"That's all I needed. A serious cut and the Monzon fight would have been off," said the former holder of the welterweight title three times and the middleweight throne twice.

The fight, the live main attraction before the 13,500 fans who paid $154,071, saw Muhammad Ali defeat Jimmy Ellis in a heavyweight theater-television bout afterwards.

Griffith, the No. 1 contender by the World Boxing Association increased his career record to 71 victories in 81 outings. Cohen, a 29-year-old Moroccan-born boxer, is now 20-8 finest vacation and recreational mecca. The entire area is dotted with excellent resorts, motels, restaurants, camp-grounds and other facilities to make your vacation or long weekend an exciting adventure. Explore a mountain wilderness during the day, and make a moonlight cruise on board a houseboat or party barge in the evening. Go SCUBA diving near a high limestone bluff or explore an interesting cave. Shop in a real "Country Store" way back in the hills and attend a movie that evening in one of the nearby cities. Explore unbelievable Eureka Springs and, later in the day, lose yourself on a high bluff overlooking Blue Spring.

Beaver Lake is a big and exciting body of water—created a few years ago by a Dam across the magnificent White River near a spot where pioneer French explorers once trapped beaver and hunted deer and buffalo. It is a fisherman's paradise and a vacationer's dream. And, it's a family recreation mecca. You already may have discovered Beaver and, if you have, you know it's great. But, if you have not, make it a point to visit the area soon. The particular season makes no difference. Whether spring, summer, fall or winter, you'll find that this area is what you've always dreamed about—a truly great retreat for you and every member of your family.

After Ellis, Ali Ready for Frazier

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ Associated Press Sports Writer HOUSTON (AP) — Muhammad Ali surprised even himself with glimpses of the past Monday night but his sights are on the future today and the future is Joe Frazier.

"I'm still in training right now," Ali said. "I'll be fighting again in six weeks," he added, only minutes after he battered Jimmy Ellis helplessly into the ropes for a technical knockout in the 12th round of their heavyweight 12-round bout in the Astrodome.

"I can't let up now," Ali said. "I'll be running four miles again tomorrow."

Ali certainly proved he was ready for phase two of his plan for a rematch with heavyweight champion Frazier. He wanted three fights before the rematch, and he danced a step closer in defeating Ellis.

He also made a believer of Ellis, Ali's former sparring partner and the former World Boxing Association champion.

Ellis said Ali was faster now than when he lost the heavyweight title to Frazier March 8.

"The man is an athlete," Ellis said. "He takes care of himself. All he needs is work. You can't lose 3½ years and have an easy time coming back."

Before a live audience of 31,947 and almost a million more in closed circuit television, Ali danced the famed Ali shuffle throughout the 12 rounds.

"I can't explain the footwork," Ali said. "I was feeling strong at the end of the fight."

Ali also said he wasn't bothered by his weight of 220½ for the fight, the heaviest of his career.

"It might have slowed me down a little, but in the long run it didn't hurt me," Ali said. "I danced all the rounds and I don't feel tired now."

Ali said it was all a matter of his mental preparation concerning the difference in his approaches in fighting Ellis and Frazier.

"I didn't plan to dance against Frazier," Ali said. "But tonight, I was thinking about dancing."

A barrage of lefts and rights by Ali in the final round sent Ellis reeling around the ring, and he almost went down twice.

Ellis was helpless on the ropes when referee Jay Edson stopped the fight at 2:10 of the 12th round. Ali stood over Ellis several seconds before Edson stopped it, with Ellis dangling.

Henderson Player Signs in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Davis of Henderson State College at Arkadelphia has signed a contract with the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-10 Davis was the Knicks' seventh-round choice in last spring's draft. Davis, a native of Caddo Gap (Montgomery County), lettered four years at Henderson and averaged 20.1 points and 10.3 rebounds a game last season.

Davis was named to the All-AIC team the past three years and was named to the NAIA second team in 1969 and 1971.

5. The French champion and the No. 8 rated middleweight, acquired a slight cut under his right eye in the opening round and another cut under his left eye in the fifth round, while absorbing a decisive defeat.

The Associated Press scored it 7-2-1 for Griffith. Judges Jack Gordon and Artie Aidel had it 6-4 and 9-1 while referee Jimmy Devlin scored it 7-3, all for Griffith.

S. African Course Is Grassless

By KENNETH L. WHITING
WALVIS BAY, South Africa (AP) — Divots can be replaced with a shovel and a bulldozer trims the edge of the fairways at the Walvis Bay Golf Club.

Some of the world's most ardent golf-lovers suffer their sports on what looks like an oil-stained patch of desert. In fact it is an oil-stained patch of the Namib desert.

Hazards include sandstorms, shifting dunes and low flying birds on their landing approach to guano collection platforms. There are browns instead of greens and some players wear goggles to combat dust and sun glare.

It's par 72 for 18 holes over 6,556 yards. A local golfer went round in 71 for the course record. Veteran South African pro Bobby Locke, more accustomed to well-manicured grass layouts, could do no better than 82.

Walvis Bay is a remote fishing port, a South African enclave surrounded by the territory of South West Africa on the inhospitable Skeleton Coast. The South Atlantic Ocean is on one side of town and the bleak Namib Desert on the other three sides.

The golf course sits between a military camp and the high coastal sand dunes. A bulldozer, special sand fences and a coating of oil helps keep the "waaisand," or shifting sand, more or less in check.

The course resembles a big flat sand trap. Bunkers are marked by four red wooden pegs to differentiate the sand inside from the rest of the sand.

White pegs define water hazards. They actually manage to get such liquid for weekend tournaments by digging between the white pegs until some underground water seeps into the holes. Annual rainfall averages less than two inches.

The club's pride is a single grass green which requires almost constant care. It must be fine-combed occasionally to remove mica particles deposited by blowing sand which could injure the brave blades of grass.

Except for the showpiece grass one, greens are made of sifted sand mixed with oil and then raked in a circular pattern around the hole.

When a player lands on the brown, he marks his ball, picks it up and uses a round metal bar fitted to a long handle to smooth a path in the raked sand from where he landed to the cup.

There are about 90 members, says Club Secretary Chris du Pleassiss, "but most are only social members." A hard core of 30 fanatics are the source of local golf legend.

Nausler Is Working to Regain Form

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Denny Nausler, tackled by a bolt of lightning a year ago, is battling to regain his form as a Southern Colorado State tight end—without even looking over his shoulder at the foe that nearly killed him.

The 6-foot-3, 215-pound senior was running a pass pattern in practice last August when lightning knocked him senseless. SCS trainer Fred Oglesby had to pound on Nausler's chest to get his heart beating again.

The shock did plenty of damage. It burned out the nerve endings in his legs, virtually paralyzing them for several months. The doctors say he'll never regain the reflexes in his ankles.

After 2½ weeks in Parkview Hospital at Pueblo, Colo., Nausler was back in class—until residual damage surfaced three weeks later.

Cataracts developed, leaving him all but blind in his right eye. The doctors advised against surgery to remove them because, they say, a contact sport like football could cause a detached retina. The eye problems knocked Nausler out of school for several more months—but hardly knocked out his will to get back on the field.

"I don't remember a thing about what happened except that I was running a pass pattern and the next thing I knew I was lying in a hospital bed," he recalled.

"But the doctor told me it's good it worked out that way, 'cause I didn't feel anything, so I don't know what to be afraid of. And he's right."

"I've run in the rain and there have been a couple of times when there was lightning, but it doesn't bother me."

"What bothered me at first was my vision—I couldn't judge distances—but I'm getting used to seeing with one eye now," Nausler said.

Girl Jockey Rides Two Winners

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
 NEW YORK (AP) — R.C. Smith rode two winners at Aqueduct race track Saturday. So, what? Many jockeys ride doubles.

The point is that R.C. Smith is Robyn Smith, a girl jockey. It is a measure of her acceptance in the turf world that her double went virtually unnoticed at the time.

Robyn scored with Prophet's Choice at $6.20 by a nose over Beau Bravo in the first race setting up a $19.80 daily double. She finished fifth astride Bill Boland in the third, but won the fourth with Beakins at $15.80 and set up a $40.20 exacta.

The double gave her seven winners for the New York season and made her the leading rider among the New York apprentices who get a seven-pound weight allowance.

Miss Smith ably demonstrated her claim "I can ride as well as any apprentice with a seven-pound allowance."

She rode Prophet's Choice hard to withstand the closing rush of Beau Bravo, a 24-1 long shot. In the fourth, a 1 1-16 mile race on the grass, she again didn't wilt pressure. She kept Beakins going to score by three-quarters of a length over the odds-on favorite, Hydro-naut.

Not only that, but in her two winning races she finished ahead of such established riders as Angel Cordero, Jr., Ron Turcotte, Heliodoro Gustines, Jorge Velasquez and Bobby Userly who later won the $115-100 Brooklyn Handicap with Never Bow.

ATTENDANCE UP

Final attendance figures for the 1970-71 National Basketball Association season show a 20 per cent increase over the previous year, from 5,146,858 to 6,194,606.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Apollo 15, scheduled to land beside the moon's Hadley Rille, will last longer, range farther and send back more spectacular television pictures than any previous moon expeditions.

After landing in the Apennine Mountains Friday, astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin will ride their lunar rover across an area of about 25 miles in three separate excursions.

The lunar rover is equipped with a color television camera that has a self-contained power pack and antenna. ABC, CBS and NBC plan extensive coverage of all the activities during the 12-day journey.

The Apollo rocket lifted off with flawless precision Monday morning and in the cloudless sky, the space ship could be seen 275 miles down range until it had virtually reached orbital altitude. It was in view for six minutes, the longest time a rocket had ever been seen down range.

NBC estimated that more than 25 million people saw the liftoff.

Two moon rides will be televised Saturday and Sunday at times that will insure a large audience around the world. The pictures will go by satellite to Europe, Japan and South America. The third moon ride comes early Monday morning a few hours before the astronauts leave the moon.

If all goes well, the most spectacular pictures will be the first view of a launch from the moon, the liftoff is set for between 1-1:30 p.m. EDT Monday.

"We hope to park the rover about 300 feet uprange and show the liftoff," said Sam Russell, an RCA systems engineer who helped build the $100,000 camera. This new camera, mounted on the rover, will show more detail and is designed to eliminate the ghosts seen in past moon walks. It also can be pointed directly into the sun without being knocked out, as happened to the Apollo 12 camera in November 1969.

Ecological Study of DeGray Lake

Dr. Oliver and Jarrell Irby from North Little Rock make a weekly water collection from different depths to analyze for plankton.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

SO LATE WE GET SMART

Dear Helen:

We're both 18 and have been married a short time. I know I made a terrible mistake.

You see, my parents were so dare strict and square that I ran away from home and married the first boy that was good to me. They didn't attend my wedding and I know they are very hurt. I quit college, have nothing, and it seems that I never will have anything. At home I had whatever I wanted, but I cheated and lied to my folks, then I laughed when they tried to manage me.

I cry a lot now because I miss them and my little sister and big brother. I don't love my husband and I want to go home and get my college education, but how can I when I was so inconsiderate and nasty?

There's no one my age I can ask advice of because my friends practically talked me into marriage. Now I know that I should have listened to my mother!

Should I just run away (again) and get a job and not let anyone know where I am? —M.G.

Dear M.:

Not once did you mention how your husband feels. Don't you think you should consider him? Perhaps he's as tired of this teenage marriage as you are and would welcome the chance to talk it out before you both walk out of it.

As for your parents: Don't expect to take up where you left off, for you're no longer their little girl. They may help you through college—and of course they'll continue loving you—but once family ties are broken by marriage, you're a separate person. You'll find you can't successfully go home again—except for visits. —H.

Dear Helen:

Please ask your daughter to answer this one: Sue, I mean, who's been doing quite a few quips and comments in your column lately—and we wish she'd do more! (Incidentally, where's Kathy? We haven't heard from her in a while. I still have her "What is a Teenage Boy?" in my scrapbook.)

Here 'tis:

Dear Sue:

My boy friend (a good friend but we're not serious enough for a mother to worry about) was standing in the bathroom doorway talking to me as I did my hair. Mom called me out and told me I should make him wait in the front room as the bathroom wasn't a proper place to talk to a boy.

Isn't this an anachronistic way to think? (And isn't that a great word?) —ROOM FOR ARGUMENT

Dear Room:

Before I turn your letter over to No. 4 offspring, a report on

Kathy: the third of our children out of the nest, she and Phil will be celebrating their first wedding anniversary soon. She promises to send comments on the young married set, now that she's a license-carrying member.

Now, He-e-r's Sue. (And if you readers want more mother-daughter columns, just ask. Helen Help Us may yet win by an heir.)

Dear "Room for Argument":

If a bathroom door isn't closed, it's just like any other room in the house and what's wrong with talking to a guy while you do up your hair, no matter where? "Waiting in the parlor" may be okay for prom dates, but for a boy's drop-in visits, it's not too swift. —SUE

NOTE FROM HELEN: "Waiting in the parlor" is "not too swift" for prom dates either: the girl should be ready on time! Right, Sue? —H.

Firemen File Suit Over Hair

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Three members of the North Little Rock Fire Department filed suit Monday in U.S. District Court charging that the department's policies regulating hair length were unconstitutional.

The plaintiffs are J. C. Gentry, a captain with 16 years of service; Fred Staley, a radio-telephone operator with three years service and James T. Matchett, a driver who has been with the department 10 years. Matchett is a nephew of North Little Rock Fire Chief Eldon Matchett.

Eldon Matchett, Mayor William F. "Casey" Laman and the members of the North Little Rock City Council were named as defendants in the suit.

Besides attacking the department's policy on hair length, sideburns and mustaches, the suit charges that some department regulations and some of the questions on the department's job application and personal history forms are unconstitutional.

The suit said the only mention of appearance standards in the department's manual of rules and regulations is a requirement that all firemen "present a neat and clean appearance." The suit says, however, that on March 8 Chief Matchett issued an order saying that "the hair will be cut neatly, that is the hair is above the collar and cut above the ears. Sideburns will not be bushy, pointed or longer than the bottom of the earlobe."

Declares War on Mrs., Miss

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bella Abzug is asking Congress to declare war on the sex prefix.

The New York Democrat, wife of a stockbroker, is doing her thing for women's liberation by preceding her signature with "Ms." She figures that can be taken for Mrs. or Miss if reference must be made at all.

But women, she said, should be considered as "individuals and not as wives of individuals." "Women are harassed daily by government interrogations as to their marital status," she told the House. "Thus, the thousands of government forms which make up red tape require women to designate Miss or Mrs., while men, apparently, are sufficiently described by the term Mr."

Each time a woman is required to designate either Mrs. or Miss, "she is reminded that her identity is perceived not only by her sex but also by her marital status," Mrs. Abzug said, but such "governmental curiosity does not apparently extend to the private lives of men."

She said there is no justification "for such idle curiosity about women. In view of the vast number of forms which must be completed by anyone associated with the United States, its elimination will do much to enhance the personal respect for the individual."

Thus, she prepared for introduction today a bill to prohibit any "instrumentality of the United States from using as a prefix to the name of any person any title which indicates marital status," as well as a resolution designating Aug. 26 as Women's Equality Day to commemorate the day in 1920 when women first won the right to vote.

Discrimination against women in employment, she said, permits supervisors to rationalize extensively—"usually on the basis that a married woman is apt to get pregnant, or she is a 'second breadwinner,' or some other unsubstantiated myth."

Under her bill, Congress, courts or any federal agency would be blocked from indicating anyone's marital status in correspondence, records, certificates or written documents.

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—If you want to know where the game fish are and why they are there at DeGray Lake, Dr. Haskell Jones, associate professor of chemistry, and Dr. Kelly Oliver, Jr., associate professor of biology, both at Henderson State College are the ones to ask.

The two scientists are conducting a continuing ecological study of DeGray Lake dealing with the water quality change in a new reservoir and its

1st Woman to Sail Atlantic

By HOWARD ULMAN
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) —

Nicolette Milnes-Walker, a 28-year-old British psychologist who became the first woman to sail alone across the Atlantic nonstop, came ashore looking for "a bath, then a steak, then some sleep."

After 46 days afloat, the 5-foot-1 miniskirted sailor—who had never spent more than two days alone in a boat before—felt earth beneath her feet for the first time at 4:05 p.m. Monday when she arrived at the Port O'Call Marina.

A light rain was falling as a Coast Guard utility boat towed her 30-foot sloop the last eight miles to shore.

Her parents, Henry and Mary Milnes-Walker, greeted her. They had arrived in Newport last Tuesday to wait for Nicolette and were joined by some 50 cheering onlookers as she stepped down the gangway.

Nicolette last saw her parents June 12 when she left the port of Dale or the tip of Wales.

Her father said he and his wife "had no more worry than any parent" concerning the safety of their daughter.

Nicolette said she was in danger only once, when she ran into a two-day storm about two weeks ago and 500 miles from her goal.

She said she feared the storm might drive her back toward England, but it subsided.

Nicolette said the first three weeks of her journey she missed people, but after that she went into a "daze."

Her longest period of unbroken sleep was five hours.

She said it was mostly clear sailing after the "terrifying" storm.

"I enjoyed myself coming in the last two or three days listening to the local radio shows," she said.

Nicolette said she felt well after landing, and her only injuries were a chipped tooth and some leg bruises.

"What a marvelous welcome," Nicolette added. "I really felt like Columbus when I got here."

effect on the life within the lake, particularly game fish.

The first six years of a new reservoir or impoundment results in phenomenal production of game fish followed by a sharp reduction in production. This is followed by another growth cycle followed by still another decline. Each cycle peaks at a lower level and at the same time the lake has progressively greater production of the less desirable rough fish.

Dr. Jones and Dr. Oliver have been taking weekly water samples and recording the chemical changes and changes that occur in the plankton and other life in the lake since 1969 when the lake started filling. After a lengthy period of time, Dr. Jones and Dr. Oliver plan to correlate the information to determine the mass balances of significant nutrients, the forms in which they exist in the water, potentially toxic pollutants, natural population trends, and potentially limiting nutrients during the different cycles.

Comparison of the data collected will also be made with neighboring Lake Greason, a stabilized or mature lake.

The end result of the study could provide information that would aid in maintaining an improved and more consistent production of game fish for new reservoirs, Dr. Jones and Oliver said.

DeGray Lake is located seven miles north of Arkadelphia and the filling operation will be finished this year.

DeGray Lake is unique among North American reservoirs since the water release is at several different levels rather than solely at the bottom which should not affect the fish downstream.

Hasn't Decided to Contest

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — An attorney for Southland Racing Corp. says Southland has not decided whether to contest the state Racing Commission's suspended revocation of the firm's dog racing franchise.

C. B. Nance Jr. of West Memphis, the attorney, refused to indicate when a decision would be made. "I've been out of town and just haven't had time to sit down and talk the matter over (with Southland officials)," he said.

The commission voted July 15 to revoke the franchise, but suspended the order until Jan. 14, 1972. The suspension was granted to allow Emprise Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y., Southland's principal stockholder, time to divest itself of all but 10 per cent of the stock it holds in Southland.

Anti-Lockheed Vote Is Decisive

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators opposed to government aid for Lockheed Aircraft Corp. have scored two impressive victories, indicating President Nixon's request to grant the company $250 million in federal loan backing may be in deep trouble.

With surprising ease, Lockheed opponents led by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., defeated the first attempt Monday to limit debate.

They beat back an effort to kill an amendment removing favored status for Lockheed from a bill to rescue any major business in financial trouble.

That amendment was pending before the Senate today although Lockheed backers appear unlikely to allow a vote soon. Evidently sensing its passage they blocked a direct vote Monday night.

Both Proxmire and the administration's chief floor spokesman, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Lockheed supporters came off far worse than either expected in the vote on limiting debate. The vote was 47 against cutting off debate and 42 for, 18 votes shy of the needed two-thirds.

Although cloture often fails on the first try, those seeking to end a filibuster usually muster at least a majority.

Tower said 12 senators had told him they would switch to the administration in the next effort Wednesday. He said if cloture fails then, successive attempts will be made through next Tuesday when, he said, it might be too late to get legislation enacted before the congressional recess starts Aug. 6.

The House, with an identical bill before it, begins debate Friday but chances for Lockheed aid look better there.

Lockheed says it must have help in completing its 400-passenger TriStar Airbus before the recess or it may go broke and be forced to lay off thousands of workers.

Senate refusal by a 45-36 vote to table an amendment by Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., was an unexpected blow to Lockheed.

Under the bill before the Senate, which was broadened from an original request for specific Lockheed aid, a three-man board would have authority to grant up to $250 million for any big business in trouble. The board, however, would have to give Congress 20 days' notice of a pending guarantee with either chamber then having the right to veto it. To protect Lockheed, the Senate Banking Committee made this provision effective Oct. 1 so the company would not be subjected to another round in the House and Senate if the legislation were enacted.

Dumping in Oceans Discussed

By ERIC SHARP

MIAMI (AP) — A State Department official meeting with scientists to formulate an international standard for dumping dangerous materials in the world's oceans says the major problem with such a plan is that it is unenforceable.

"That's the major weakness of the plan," says Slaton C. Blackiston, a State Department officer and head of the Secretary of State's Advisory Committee for the 1972 United Nations Conference on the Human Environment.

American scientists and State Department officials are meeting to draw up a plan for controlling the dumping of dangerous materials into the seas.

"We're not talking about tankers clearing oily ballast from their bilges," Blackiston said. "We already have international laws to control that. What we're talking about is nations deliberately setting out to dump materials that could be hazardous to the environment."

As an example, Blackiston said, a freighter set out last week to dump into the Atlantic 600 tons of chemical wastes from a Dutch firm.

"That ship turned back because there was just so much unfavorable international reaction. We would like to formulate a convention under which nations would license dumping. Anyone who wanted to dump

Thanks To County Judge

Editor the Star: I would like to take this opportunity to thank the County Judge for the help he has given me recently. Friday night lightning struck nine of my cows in a pasture on 23rd St. I was informed of this late Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning the judge had men and equipment at the scene to dispose of the animals.

Again I would just like to say thank you to the judge and his staff.

North's jump raise to four hearts did not show a very big hand. What it did show was a rather minimum opening spade bid that had good heart support.

South did have a big hand and was fully justified in checking for aces and then contracting the slam after he found that one of those choice cards was missing.

West decided to open a trump. East took his ace and returned the suit.

South won in dummy; looked things over and commented, "This could be very embarrassing. I can surely make the hand if I know what line of play to adopt. I guess I had better find it."

South finally decided to play for a reasonable spade break, so he cashed the ace and king of spades. After that it was a simple matter to ruff a spade; cash the ace of diamonds; ruff a diamond and ruff another spade to set up the last one in dummy.

South proceeded to draw West's last trump with his own last trump while discarding one low club from dummy; discard dummy's other low club on the king of diamonds and make the last three tricks with the ace-king of clubs and the last spade.

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ A K 8 7 ♥ A 2 ♣ K Q 9 ♠ K 6 4 3

What do you do now?

A—Pass. You bid four diamonds to get more information and your partner told you he has no slam interest.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding, four spades, your partner has bid five clubs over your four diamonds. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

anything in the ocean would have to apply to his government for a permit and prove the dumping was being done in a safe manner."

Western Union Strike Settled

By MICHAEL J. REILLY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Agreement has been reached on a new two-year contract for 17,000 Western Union Telegraph Co. employees, ending a 57-day nationwide strike.

E.L. Hageman, president of the AFL-CIO United Telegraph Workers, said the contract, still subject to worker ratification, provides for a 19-per-cent boost in wages, plus benefits totaling another 4 per cent.

"We consider it a good contract," Hageman said Monday night. "The negotiating committee is recommending ratification."

Pickets were called off and employees will start back to work at midnight tonight, Hageman said.

In addition to the across-the-board wage increase, Hageman said, additional increases were worked out for certain classifications.

Fringe benefit improvements, which the company said were worth 2 per cent, but Hageman maintained were worth 4 per cent, are in hospitalization, daily expense allowances, group life insurance and vehicle allowances for auto messengers.

Severance pay would increase 50 per cent for employees displaced because of work or office relocations, a stumbling block in early negotiations. Also provided for, said Hageman, is a form of job security for persons with five or more years' seniority who are bumped to lesser positions by more veteran employees. Those moved down will remain at their highest pay.

Should it be approved, the new pact will be retroactive to the time strikers returned to work.

In the New York metropolitan area, 3,100 Western Union workers remain on strike. As members of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America, they are bargaining separately with Western Union.

Domestic telegraph service was stopped when the strike began, although supervisory personnel continued to operate Telex and leased-wire operations.

The telegraph workers initially sought a 32-per-cent raise over two years plus job security provisions. Western Union's last offer before the walkout was for a 16-per-cent pay increase over two years, plus another 4 per cent to be added whenever the federal government approved higher telegraph rates.

Christian School to Open

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) —The Central Arkansas Christian School will open grades 1-6 by Sept. 13 in the educational facilities of the Sylvan Hills Church of Christ.

James D. Freeman, temporary chairman of the school's board of directors, made the announcement Monday.

Freeman said earlier that the school would be opened if sufficient interest were shown in the facility. He said Monday that the board had tentatively planned on a minimum enrollment of 150 students and a maximum of 180 for the first six grades. Freeman said Monday that the enrollment was apparently past the 75 per cent mark and that some classes were almost full.

Freeman said the school will be "Bible centered" and will have Bible courses in the curriculum. He said that as far as he knew no blacks had applied for admission to the school, but "if they do they will be accepted on a first come first served basis."
